EDITORIAL.

It should be the ambition of every Junior Class to furnish a more full and attractive Olio than the preceding.

The growth and increasing popularity of our Alma Mater, seem to demand greater exertions to make this Index a true one. Never before has a College Year opened in Amherst with brighter prospects. The liberal donations that have been received from time to time, during the past few years, begin to be seen and felt. The renovated and now elegant and commodious chapel, with its neat and appropriate recitation rooms, indicates progress in the right direction.

And it must be a source of pride and joy to every American, who loves his country and the immortal principles it represents, to know that even in the darkest hours of that bloody and disastrous civil war through which we have at last, thank God, safely passed, that even in all the gloom and misery of the past four years the cause of education has not been forgotten. How great must have been the faith of those large-hearted men, who believing in the ultimate triumph of our free institutions, lavishly bestowed their wealth on those centres of learning which must become at once the protectors and purifiers of our religion and our politics.

The Faculty as well as the Students have received large additions and improvements. Prof. L. Clarke Seelye's energy and wit seem to throw new life into the Department of Rhetoric and Oratory. Messrs. Graves, Biscoe and Lamson are the other three gentlemen destined to watch the opening buds, ('69), and swelling pods, ('68). President Stearns, Prof. Shepard, and Prof. Montague are in Europe. Times are changed. The amicable brothers of the Class of '66 have rode gracefully up to the position of Seniors. The Juniors are busy enough with the duties and pleasures of the term. They bid a glad farewell to Sophomore year. The Sophomores for rank reasons are trying to reform. The Freshmen are a fine looking Class and will doubtless be a valuable accession.

For the list of Amherst's heroes whose names are published in this Olio, we are indebted to Prof. Crowell. We do not assume that it is complete. It may not be correct, and for any additional information we shall be duly grateful.

Well may the Collego be proud of the part she has taken in crushing the rebellion, and vindicating the rights and liberties of all men. The work, however, is only begun. A broader and a grander field for action lies open before us.

TOUR AMONG THE COLLEGES.

TIME—11 O'CLOCK, SATURDAY NIGHT.

WE were prompted to make this tour by certain rumors of gross irregularities among the students rooming in the colleges. The following was our rich experience :

Hardly had we commenced our nocturnal investigations when our attention was arrested, at No. 31 S. C., by certain sounds indicating that a "bum" was in progress. Amid the jingling of decanters and the rattling of plates, little Cole was heard singing, "Landlord fill your flowing bowls." The voice of Twichell was also distinguished calling for "just one more (hic!) drink," while we blushed for Bradbury as we heard him attempting to induce Blake to try a cigar. Disgusted, we left the spot; while descending the stairs we met Paine considerably alleviated by the "Extract of Rye." In the rear of this college Gage was found endeavoring to convince Dike that, in the moon just rising in the eastern sky, he had discovered the Vernal Equinox, while from the window of No. 19 Peirce was heard rehearsing to Moody a sermon to be preached at Pelham on the following Sabbath, while Brown and Whitaker seemed to be selecting hymns. We proceeded to East College. We paused first at No. 37, where J. E. Spear was evidently taking a private lesson in the art of oratory from B. Dyer. Ascending to the suite of rooms occupied by Burnham and Peckham, certain suspicious expressions from the inmates greeted our ears, such as "I pass" from Grosvenor, "I order it up" from Park, "I go it alone" from Burnham, "I guess I'll assist" from Peckham, &c. Unable to interpret such expressions as these, we "passed" also and proceeded to the well for a drink of water, but 'ere reaching it we met Ziegler carrying off the dipper, which accounts for its frequent disappearance. Approaching North College, we encountered Clark and Smart engaged in a warm discussion on the Theology of Theodore Parker. Hearing at a short distance the distressed cries of a turkey, we turned in that direction, but found nothing except Homer with a large bundle under his coat.

After passing North College, which seemed to be in a state of quiet, we discovered Danforth in the garden, vowing, with many an expression of undying love, eternal constancy to Sabrina.

Satisfied with these experiences, we sought our room, with new ideas as to the manner in which Saturday night is observed in Amherst College. Perhaps these disclosures may seem harsh to some, but the truth should be published that the virtuous may be rewarded and the guilty censured.

MISCELLANEOUS	51

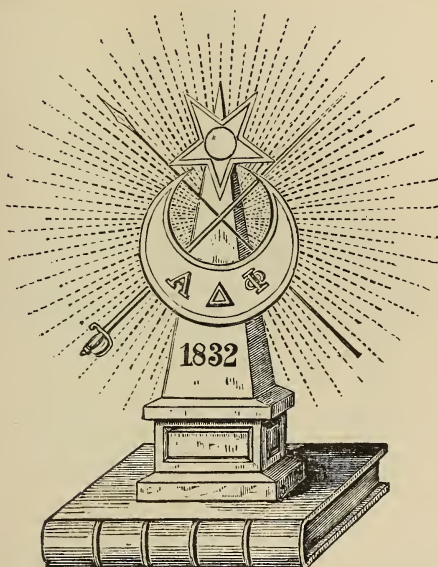

THE AMHERST OLIO.

IN presenting this volume of the "Olio" to you, we do not wish to fill this, its introduction, with vain promises and boasts of what we should do "if we were learned in Hickok," or some other equally illustrious man, as is the custom of some Editors; but we wish to submit this on the firm basis of being the best we could do under the circumstances. The Freshman Class this year is one of unusually large numbers, and in them the "old times seem returned to us," for they are, evidently, the ball-players of the College. Generally we look for "professionals," in the classes which have been here the longest, and consequently had a chance to become more skilled in the game; but this year, the Class of '71 take the lead, and their "home strikes" on the Campus are only equalled by the ease and facility with which they skim along through the difficult mazes of "Βουλεύω" in the recitation-room; and no wonder, for how can any be but inspired, as he sits in the beautiful room of Prof. Mather, adorned as it is by so many fine works of art. All must, we think, receive fresh vigor and impulse to advance, as he sees on either side speaking pictures of the very things concerning which he is studying. We congratulate the Professor on his taste, and trust donations may still continue to pour in. What ought we to say of the Sophomore Class? How "oft in the stilly night" has the mingled notes of the tin-pan and horn saluted our wakeful ears, and struck terror into the hearts of Freshmen, as they recognize the tramp on the stairs, the knock at the door, while visions of scanning in the Greek Lexicon, and singing "Old Hundred," dance through their heads. Lately they have been "tried in the balance," and sifted a little, but still their numbers remain very nearly the same. Need any be informed that those quiet, inoffensive looking men, who walk slowly along, with books under their arms, eyes cast down, and meditating on the laws relating to the solar system, or else engaged with themselves in some subtle Platonic reasoning, are Juniors? No, the College world recognize in them the great universal law, that "after a storm comes a calm." '68, few in numbers, but excelling in the depth of class-feeling which binds them together, we all look up with wonder at their powers, developing so rapidly under their Professor, and we hope we may all some time arrive at such dignity. For a long time the College authorities have had the Walker building "in their eye," but now that it has remained there so long, we all really feel that it ought to be removed soon, lest it seriously affect them. It stands exactly where it did a year ago, unless we must regard those huge masses of stone, scattered through the Grove, evidently placed there for the Freshmen to play "hide and seek" in, those sad monuments of fickle dispositions, as advances in the right direction. One thing has happened lately that has cast a cloud over the whole body of students; this is, the resignation of Professor Clark, and his appointment as President of the Agricultural College. While we congratulate our sister institution on her success in procuring such an able, learned, and energetic man, we all deeply feel our loss; never was there a Professor who so exactly met the wants of the students: always ready to oblige, cheerful, and accommodating, the College will go far before she finds his equal. He carries with him the good wishes of Amherst College, and we at least hope that his connection with us shall not be so completely severed, as that the College Garden, a beautiful witness last Spring of his taste and attention, shall now be neglected.

THE GREAT

Burlesque and Comedy Company.

TWENTY-SEVEN star (fixed) performers. Beautiful scenery, painted by the Graves Brothers, at great expense, magnificently decorated Theatre (Agricultural Hall), will give their moral and instructive entertainments at the above-named place every evening this term, beginning November 1, on which evening the entire company will appear in the unrivalled play of "Hiawatha."

PETER S*E, '70. Sole Lessee and Manager.

HIAWATHA, (who in his own estimation and in that of a very few of his "braves" is "some pumpkins," and who according to tradition is in love with the dusky maid "Minnehaha," who although not wearing a waterfall yet lives very near one. He is also the happy possessor of the famous "seven-league boots." N. B. These boots can be seen by calling at Mr. T.'s room South College,).....ADONIRAM J. TH, '70.

MINNE-HA-HA, (This charming artistè has but recently appeared "on the boards," and has engaged the services of the talented young foreigner now in Amherst, to give her instruction in the use of the "chop stick," and in one act will be discovered using them "a la Japanese,")....."SIS" DX, '70.

IAGOO, ("He the boaster and the story-teller,")

WILFRED L*E, '70.

WAH-CON-TA, (the athlete who is employed by the tribe of the Ojibways to give instruction in gymnastics, and all manly sports, including Base Ball.)....GEORGE MCK, '69.

IPPE-KAK, }
SASA-PRIL, } Medicine men of the "Saultz" tribe.
AMMO-NIA, } Young men from the Class of '71.

PAU-PUK-KEEWIS, ("He's a dandy," the fast man in the play,

ALFRED E. TCY, '69.

CHI-BIA-BOS, (warbler of ye love sonnets and "heart smasher" in general,).....SIDNEY T. SE, '69.

YENNA-DIZZIE, ("He the lightest of the dancers," and the brave who does the "soft talk" to the squaws,) JAMES C*s, '69.

As the curtain (purchased at S. Ward's auction) falls, Mr. Page, of the Class of '69, will appear in the character of "Black Hawk," and deliver the following explanation that the audience (?) may not retire without any idea whatever of the play:—

Should you ask me, What's its nature?
 Ask me, What's the kind of play?
 Ask me in respectful language,
 Kicking back your manly hind leg,
 Like to one who sees his betters;
 I should answer, I should tell you,
 'T is a play that's in this meter,
 And embalming the traditions,
 Fables, rites, and superstitions,
 Legends, charms, and ceremonials,
 Of the various tribes of Indians,
 From the land of the Ojibways,
 From the land of the Dacotahs,
 Where the heron, the Suh-shuh-gah,
 Finds its sugar in the rushes.
 Should you ask me, Is there music
 In the structure of the verses?
 You'd prefer your ears well tickled;—
 I should answer, I should tell you,
 Page's delivery, it is charming,—
 And for names, there's Hiawatha,
 Who's the hero of the play,
 There's Nokomis, there's Wenonah,
 (Minor parts "upon the boards")
 Ladies both of various merit.
 Pau-puk-keewis, he's so handsome,
 Barr'd with streaks of red and yellow,
 That the women and the maidens
 Love the handsome Pau-puk-keewis;
 Then there's lovely Minnehaha,
 Pretty name with pretty meaning,
 It implies the Laughing-water;
 And the gentle Minnehaha,
 Has not yet belied her name.
 Should you ask me, What has all this
 To do with the play in question,
 I should answer, I should tell you,
 You are Fresh, and most imprudent,
 'T is not for the Underclassmen
 To inquire what links and unions
 Join the thoughts and mystic meanings
 Of their betters, the Upperclassmen.

 N. B.—The programmes for this evening will be printed by Mr. S. K. Orr. We deem this announcement necessary to save our reputation, as we wish it perfectly understood that cheapness forms no part of this show.

P. S.—The undersigned will furnish music on the occasion. We insert their full advertisement, gratis, pitying their condition.
